

JFK Might Go Before People About Tax Cut

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy consulted his top economic advisers today on the question of a tax cut—a prospect now apparently dimming—and there were signs he might go before the people on television.

The White House promised a statement which press secretary Pierre Salinger said would have some general relationship to the President's meeting with tax and economic experts from within and without the government.

Asked whether the White House has asked for radio and television time Monday night, Salinger told reports: "I couldn't say anything about that now."

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said that most of the important economic indicators for July were brought into the White House conference. It took a rush job to get some of them ready, he said.

It was these for which Kennedy was waiting before reaching a final decision on whether to ask for a quick tax cut.

Some of these indicators edged upward, lending weight to the idea that the President would hold off a recommendation for a tax cut at this time.

Several members of the Cabinet, the presidential Council of Economic Advisers, the budget director, and others took part in the round table economic talks.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, as did Hodges, took some new economic figures to the meeting.

The session lasted a little more than an hour. Some of the participants stayed behind at the White House to talk with staff members afterward.

Along with Hodges and Goldberg, those called to the White House for the meeting included secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, Budget Director David E. Bell and the three members of the Council of Economic Advisers headed by Walter Heller.

A group of labor leaders who unchained with Kennedy on Wednesday came away saying he was doubtful Congress would be willing to approve a tax cut this year; however, a final presidential decision was deferred pending study of the economic signposts for July.

The July figures, to be announced piecemeal during the coming weeks, will reveal a rather sluggish economic advance—but an advance, nonetheless. Although disappointing in terms of pessimistic January forecasts, they hardly can be expected to generate the kind of alarm which many believe would be necessary before Congress would vote a tax cut at its current session.

Checks with informed officials indicated the July statistics will show moderate increases in retail sales, industrial production and personal income. Also, there appeared to be a fair chance that final figures will show a July reversal of the six-month downward trend in the flow of new orders to manufacturers of durable goods.

Employment figures announced earlier revealed a slight improvement in the job situation.

While the July results offer no basis for expecting a strong economic upsurge, neither do they point to an immediate recession. Since Kennedy already is concerned about congressional opposition to a hurry-up tax cut, it seemed likely the inconclusive statistics would permit a decision to defer action on taxes until 1963.

Gray Named to Fund Committee

Fred Gray, manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. here, has been named chairman of the budget committee of the Hempstead County United Fund. He succeeds Bill Caldwell whose company transferred him from Hope. Other members of the committee are Syd McMath and Dale Jones. The committee has scheduled a meeting for 2:30 p. m. Monday at First National Bank Community Room to review all requests for funds in preparation for the 1963 campaign.

All participating agencies are asked to make their requests known to the committee prior to Monday's meeting.

Marlar Is Sane, Hospital Rules

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP)—Jerrell K. Marlar of Roston who is charged with the murder of a Louisiana man, has been found sane by State Hospital doctors and returned to Miller County for trial.

His companion, Welda Lee Derr, who also is charged in the murder, was still in the State Hospital.

Sheriff Rudy Burgess said Marlar probably would be tried in the September term of Miller Circuit Court.

Marlar and the woman told Caddo Parish, La., officers that they killed Thomas O. Bond of Bossier City last April 28, stole his car and dumped his body on a farm road near Fouke, Ark. The body was found May 28.

They were returned to Arkansas to face charges, and then committed to the State Hospital.

Rotarians Hear Dist. Governor

In Hope to meet with officers of the local Rotary Club, Frank E. McAnear, Governor District 617 Rotary International addressed the Club at its meeting here Friday. He is Manager of the Johnson County Chamber of Commerce in Clarksville, spoke of the internationality of Rotary and the significant contributions Rotarians everywhere are making to the advancement of world understanding and good will.

"Rotarians in more than 11,000 communities on six continents," he said, "are helping to draw nations closer together through their efforts to build understanding among men of different creeds and color. They are also at work in the area of public opinion, helping to shape it on important world issues by providing information on which sound decisions can be made." Frank also emphasized the importance of the individual Rotarian to the global program of Rotary, this year," he reminded.

Speaking of the work of Rotary in international affairs, Frank commended the local Club for its support of the Rotary Foundation which awards fellowships to graduate students for study in countries other than their own. Since 1947, Rotary International has awarded more than $4,000,000 with grants averaging $2,700.

Contributions from Rotary Clubs make the awards possible. Frank described some of the accomplishments of Rotary Clubs in District 617 which includes support of Rotary Foundation, Crippled Adults Hospital at Memphis, Playgrounds for our Youth, and many other worthwhile projects in which Rotary Club and individual Rotarians give much aid.

Hope Boy Elected

MONTICELLO, Ark. (AP)—Roy Allison of Hope and Mary Zack of Pine Bluff were named Mr. and Miss Dixie Music Camp Thursday night during activities of the 25th annual camp at Arkansas A&M College here.

Special Bond Vote

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP)—Ashley County Judge W. T. Higgins has set Sept. 11 for a special county election on a 1-mill property tax to finance a proposed $340,000 bond issue. The bond money would be used to finance a garment factory at Hamburg.

Farmers Elect ASCS Committee

Farmers of Hempstead county have elected community committeemen in 12 agricultural communities of the county to assist in the administration of ASCS farm programs throughout the county next year. The new committeemen will assume office September 1 and will serve for a year or until their successor is elected and qualified.

Three committeemen and two alternates were elected in each community with the balloting being by mail. In addition, the chairman of the committee will be a delegate to the county convention where three regular members and two alternates will be elected to serve on the ASCS county committee. The county convention will be held August 21, 1962 at the Hempstead ASCS County Office.

Mr. Self, chairman of the county ASCS committee, said he was well pleased with the number of votes cast in the elections. There were 768 votes cast in the twelve agricultural communities of the county. This is an increase of 69 over the number of votes cast last year. This indicates the increased interest farmers have in the various agricultural programs.

The ASCS committee administer all of the ASCS farm program in the county. They include Commodity and Facility Loan Programs, Wool Program, Agricultural Conservation Program, Soil Bank Program, Feed Grain and Wheat Stabilization Program, Marketing Quota and Acreage Allotment Programs, which affect all farmers in the county.

Committeemen elected by communities were as follows:

Neighbors Use Guns in Dispute

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A boundary dispute between neighbors near the Rixey community north of Little Rock erupted into gun fire Thursday and two men were hospitalized.

Sheriff's deputies Frank Graves and Herbert Ragan reported that W. D. Collins, 49, and Eugene Parrow, 49, were hospitalized at Jacksonville in satisfactory condition following the shooting.

The officer said Collins and Parrow's 77-year-old father, Harmon Parrow, had feuded for some time over a boundary between their adjoining properties.

This account of the incident was given:

Last week, Parrow drove a metal stake into the ground, indicating where he thought the property line should be. Collins removed the stake Sunday.

Parrow came Thursday to discuss the matter with Collins who was cutting his grass and an argument followed. The elder Parrow's son told his father to go in the house while he went to discuss the matter with Collins.

After a brief discussion, Collins fired twice at the younger Parrow, wounding him once. The elder Parrow returned the fire, wounding Collins.

En route to the hospital, the officers said, Collins apparently blacked out while driving and his car left the highway and struck a parked car.

Hoover Calls for Union of Free Nations

WEST BRANCH, Iowa (AP) — Speaking from the experience of a lifetime of public service "now as the shadows gather around me," Herbert Hoover today proposed a new union of the world's free nations.

He termed it "the remaining hope for peace in the world."

"Today we have no peace," said the nation's 31st president on his 88th birthday, recounting from his first-hand knowledge of the world's struggles for harmony.

In a speech prepared for the dedication of the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library in the village of his birth, Hoover declared:

"We must realize that the United Nations has failed to give us even a remote hope of lasting peace. Instead, it adds to the dangers of wars which now surround us." The Communist nations, he said, "have destroyed the usefulness of the United Nations to preserve peace."

"The time is here when, if the free nations are to survive, they must have a new and stronger worldwide organization," Hoover said.

"For purposes of this discussion I may call it the 'Council of Free Nations.' It should include only those who are willing to stand up and fight for their freedom."

Hoover said he would not have their CFN replace the United Nations, but would design it to step in when the United Nations is prevented from acting or fails to act to preserve peace.

The Hoover library made of native limestone, is the fourth of the presidential libraries created by Congress to make the records of White House administrations available to the American people. The new structure occupies 6,500 square feet and a second unit of 9,000 square feet is planned.

Already functioning are the libraries of Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Truman was listed among the guest speakers.

Today's ceremonies in West Branch, where Hoover spent the first 10 years of his life, included presentation of two honorary degrees to him, one from the University of Missouri and the other from Washington University in St. Louis.

Acting as master of ceremonies was Adm. Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the board of the Herbert Hoover Birthplace Foundation and Hoover's former secretary. Strauss was chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, 1953-58.

The return to West Branch recalled for Hoover "a joyous childhood." It was here, he said that he picked potato bugs for 10 cents a hundred "for the serious purpose of buying firecrackers to applaud the founding fathers on each Fourth of July."

Crews Working Millwood Dam Reservoir Digging for Clues to the State's Past

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. — During Arkansas' colorful history, men have dug for diamonds, for oil, and for ore.

Now they're digging for clues to the mysteries of the state's past.

The clues for which they search are artifacts, primitive art objects and implements, used by Indians who inhabited the state centuries before DeSoto first gazed upon it.

Much of the digging for clues to how those ancient peoples lived is being done by the University of Arkansas' Museum, which is excavating now in three different places in the state and will be locating sites in a fourth area next month.

Currently, the Museum working trowel in shovel with the National Park Service, is active in the Millwood Reservoir area on Little River near Hope; at the Beaver Reservoir area on White River between Eureka Springs and Rogers; and at the opposite end of the Beaver area near Springdale. Sites have been examined near Forrest City, and in September new ones will be mapped out in the DeGray Reservoir area on the Caddo River between Amity and Arkadelphia.

There's a reason why the Museum and National Park Service crews are working — and rather frantically — in the Millwood and Beaver Areas: They want to extract the valuable pieces of pottery, tools, and bone there before the areas are flooded with water. The Millwood project is being carried out by the Park Service with the assistance of the Museum. The Park Service is providing the money and personnel; the Museum the equipment and office space. Up at Beaver, the University is providing technical personnel and equipment for a crew working between Eureka Springs and Rogers, while the Park Service is providing funds to defray expenses. A crew working near Springdale is composed entirely of University personnel and students, who are taking a course in archaeological field techniques.

While crews in the field are digging out projectile points, fragments of stoneware, and other artifacts, materials are continually being analyzed in the Museum laboratories. At present much of the analyses is focused on artifacts that came out of Indian mounds excavated recently near Malvern and Texarkana, although some articles collected as far back as the 20's are also being examined, preparatory to writing reports the Museum will publish.

Most of the actual analysis of artifacts is being done by a staff headed by Dr. Raymond W. Wood, curator of anthropology. It was Wood who directed the excavation work of an ancient Indian mound in Miller County near Texarkana last spring. Working under a grant from the National Science Foundation, Wood and his crew probed deeply into the mound, built about 800 A. D., to unearth some of the secrets of the relationship between the Coles Creek Indians, of which little is known, and the Caddos, a group that apparently succeeded the Coles Creeks in the Miller County area.

According to Wood, both tribes settled along the river banks, grew crops, and hunted, but anthropologists still don't know to what language family the Coles Creeks belonged, or what happened to them — whether they died out, moved on, or merged with the Caddos.

But the quiet search among the relics goes on, and perhaps more light will be shed on the Coles Creeks when the Millwood project is completed.

Coroner Tilman McBrayer of Prescott ruled "death from gunshot wound self inflicted" following an investigation. Aiding in the investigation were Sheriff Horace Hale of Prescott and State Policeman Earl Orr.

The officers said the body was found in a closet at the Mullins home. No note was found.

The body was brought to Hope by a Hernon-Cornelius Ambulance and turned over to Oakcrest Funeral Service. Arrangements are incomplete. Mr. Mullins is survived by his wife and several children.

O. W. Mullins, 60 Ends Own Life on Emmet Rt. 1

Olha W. Mullins, aged 60, a resident of Emmet Rt. 1, shot himself to death with a 12 gauge shotgun at his home about 9:30 a. m. Friday. He was a construction worker.

James D. Edwards, Hope, is one of 519 seniors scheduled to receive degrees at North Texas State University on August 23. . . . he is a 1951 graduate of Hope High School, and will get a bachelor of science degree in physical education. . . . he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben D. Edwards of Hope.

With all the publicity given the Secretary to State race during the past few days there should be no lack of interest from the public. . . . whatever is going on with Kelly Bryant's opponent changing his mind so much and forced into an election by a close neighbor who is head of the State Democratic Party, local friends and neighbors should take no chance. . . . a home town candidate needs the backing of his home county. . . . go out and vote in Tuesday's election and defeat any political scheme if there is one.

New Railway Rules Delayed by Injunction

By EDMUND D'MOCH

CHICAGO (AP)—Federal Judge Joseph Sam Perry granted today a temporary injunction to operating railroad unions. The ruling bars introduction of new management economy rules pending appeal.

The U.S. District Court order could delay application of the expense-slashing program, which eventually would knock out 65,000 jobs. The carriers had planned to put the new rules in effect next Thursday.

The five operating brotherhoods now will take to the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals an earlier ruling by Judge Perry denying their suit to outlaw the job cancellations.

The 65,000 work force cut which railroad spokesman J. E. Wolfe testified was an eventual goal would wipe out about 10 per cent of railroad employment.

The carriers want an immediate reclassification of work rules that would make obsolete the jobs of some 40,000 firemen who presently idle in the cabs of diesel locomotives.

But Wolfe said this is just the first step in the over all economy effort.

Unnecessary labor expenses Wolfe testified, cost the nation's railroads $592,062,000 annually.

The reclassification, in line with the recommendations of a presidential fact-finding commission, would result in the immediate dismissal of 13,000 firemen, those with less than 10 years seniority. The 40,000-job reduction would be accomplished gradually by retirement, transfer and normal job turnover.

In addition, Wolfe testified, the carriers hope to eliminate 25,000 additional operating workers in accordance with the work rules proposed by the presidential commission.

The unions say they will strike rather than allow the new work rules to go into effect.

White House action probably would block such a move—at least for 60 days. President Kennedy, under the Railway Labor Act, can preserve the status quo by the appointment of an emergency fact-finding board. Its recommendations presumably would form the basis for renewed negotiations between management and the railroad unions which would put off a showdown still further.

The duties and responsibilities of a railroad fireman were presented at Thursday's hearing by Wolfe and Samuel C. Phillips of Cleveland, assistant president of the Brotherhood of Firemen and Enginemen.

Any man hired at random, said Wolfe, could learn the duties of a fireman well enough after a single train run to halt a train in case of an emergency.

Phillips said examinations are required of firemen after their first, second and third years on the job to test their capabilities. He said firemen have exacting job responsibilities.

The Railroad Unions involved in the long dispute represent engineers, trainmen, firemen, conductors and switchmen. Working conditions of all are affected by the proposed rules changes.

Mrs. Henry Hitt, 75, Dies Here Early Friday

Mrs. Leola Marsh Hitt, 75, wife of the late Henry Hitt, died early today in a local rest home. She was a lifelong resident of Hope and a member of the First Methodist Church.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Lydia Bailey, Prescott; Mrs. Georgia M. Whittemore, Hope; two brothers, Clarence Marsh, Prescott; and Shell Marsh, New Orleans, La.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday at Herndon-Cornelius Chapel with Bro. Rufus Sorrells. Burial will be in DeAnn Cemetery at Prescott.

Cinerama Is Now Telling Stories

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cinerama, which revolutionized movies a decade ago by breaking the confines of the standard screen, is finally in the story-telling business.

Putting out five highly successful travelogues, Cinerama commission MGM to create two full-sized features. The first, "The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm," is now being released. The second, "How the West Was Won," will follow.

Hollywood has been waiting to learn how a plotted movie can fit onto the huge cinerama screen, curved to 146-degrees angle of view.

The answer came at this week's premiere: Fine.

As many of us have suspected all along, there is no reason why a plot cannot be played on the immense cyclorama. It is not meant for intimate drama. But close scenes of two figures or even one can easily be projected between the more eye-filling segments.

Wisely, there are many of the latter in "Brothers Grimm." Three fairy tales are depicted with verve and imagination. The castles and villages of Bavaria and the Rhine country are explored with stunning results.

There are a breakneck carriage ride, a riverboat voyage and a trip on an antique train to stimulate the ohs and ahs of those who are easily convinced they are in motion, despite being implanted in their theater seats. This is a Cinerama must, dating back to Mike Todd's roller coaster ride in the first film. Somehow that one has never been topped.

As to the plot, it is a bare-boned affair about the struggle of the brothers, especially Wilhelm (Laurence Harvey), to get ancient fairy tales into printed form. The acting is elemental, as if performers and director alike were bewitched by the bug-eyed Cinerama camera.

The cast is competent though a bit bewildering in its accents—Harvey's Old Vic British, Karl Boehm's Austrian, Claire Bloom's English ("Where have you been, Wilhelm?"), Walter Slezak and Oscar Homolka's Viennese, Terry-Thomas' Piccadilly and Buddy Hackett's Brooklyn-Cockney.

While the dramatic portions are sometimes stilted, the fairy tales are not. "The Dancing Princess" is played charmingly by Russ Tamblyn and Yvette Mimieux. It is the highlight of the film. Producer George Pal revives his puppets with winsome results in "The Cobbler and the Elves." "The Singing Bone" presents some good low comedy and a fairly believable dragon.

"The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm" is not for sophisticated. It is to be enjoyed with children. There being so many of those around, it is likely to be a success.

Real Fathers Aren't Always Good, Nor Stepfathers Always Bad

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: When I married for the third time at the age of 23, I wanted more than anything a good man as father my two sons and give them and me a real home. But, having made such glaring previous mistakes in picking the right husband, I had my doubts, fearing that I must lack the something which makes for a good wholesome marriage. My husband showed me in his quiet, yet strong way, that true marriage means sharing, giving and loving. He let me share his joys and sorrows, dreams and hopes; the disappointments, too. He made me feel they were neither his nor mine but "ours." Each day was more wonderful, with contentment finding a real place in marriage for me—at last. One instance stands out in my memory, clearly and proudly. We were having difficulty persuading the five-year-old son to finish his meal. Instead of going into his mouth, it was being hurled into the air. My husband spoke sternly. A moment's silence then, hotly and defiantly, my small son replied: "You're not my real father, I don't have to do what you say." This was not my son, but his real father, talking in that boy. Again the old misery of the previous marriage engulfed me. I thought of the many things his stepfather had hung up for the boy: the new hunting rifle he wanted so much but put the cost of it in the savings bank toward the price of legal adoption papers for both my children; the money he'd saved for a new pair of shoes and instead coming home bringing something "the kids needed more." Then there was his lunch money saved to take the boys on a long promised trip to Disneyland.

Finally my husband spoke, "Son, I want you to remember something always. Will you?" The boy nodded, wide-eyed. "I love you and your brother and your mother very much. You will never know how much until you have a family of your own. That is why I want you to be good and why I worry about you. But don't forget this: real fathers aren't always good and stepfathers aren't always bad."

To this day, my son remembers those words. I do enjoy your column and hope you will print a part of this, if possible. I also hope you still have the column for many years to come so that I may again write about this man of mine who has shown me and my boys how fine a real husband and stepfather can be. —Thankful Wife

COMMERCE, Tex., Aug. 8 — Eight high school students from Hope are attending the annual cheerleading camp at East Texas State College.

The camp, sponsored by the music department for high school students, will be conducted in three oneweek sessions.

The National Cheerleading Association is providing the staff members who will give instructions in stunts, skits, school spirit, parades, pep rallies, sportsmanship, yells, and tumbling.

While at East Texas, camp students will live in college housing and participate in dances, swimming, tennis, archery picnics, movies, and badminton for recreation.

Camp director will be Dr. Ray Luke, assistant professor of music at East Texas.

Facts of Life All Around Arkansas

By J. C. TILLMAN

Some one in the Atkins school district has figured out that when as many as ten persons of school age gather in one place you can be sure that at least one of them is a Duval.

Records in the office of James Bell, county supervisor, show that a total of 62 children between the ages of six and 18 by the name of Duval live in the district. The Duval name also leads the list for the entire county with a total of 88.

Assistant Postmaster Sam Boucher of Jonesboro says he is getting quite a few requests for cancellations of stamps to commemorate a Civil War skirmish that occurred in the area either July 29 or Aug. 3, 1862.

As near as local residents can figure out, the Confederates jumped a federal detachment and clobbered them. Nevertheless, Boucher says most of the requests for stamp cancellations came from are coming from the north and east.

When a baby Martin fell from its house at the F. F. Gregory home on the Strong Highway near El Dorado about seven weeks ago, the Gregorys did the natural thing and protected the bird.

It was natural because when the same thing happened last year the Gregorys picked up the bird, named it Pete and nursed it to flying age.

The one this year they have named Re-Pete. The Gregorys reared it by hand, feeding it crickets and the like, and even taught it to fly by whirling it on their hand and "shooing it" on.

Now the bird flies with its mates, but frequently comes back "home" for a tasty cricket or a little petting.

Fayetteville is the home town of a quite distinguished architect — Edward Durrell Stone.

Stone's work includes the American pavilion at the Brussels World fair, Hotel Karachi in Pakistan, the American Embassy in New Delhi, India and the Peruvian government hospital in Lima. The latter is reputed to be the largest hospital in the world.

Stone travels considerably, of course, but occasionally makes it home for a lecture at the University of Arkansas.

Cabinet of Kennedy Says Little

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's Cabinet — compared with some of the more outspoken members of President Eisenhower's Cabinet—looks like a bunch of silent Sams.

Each President is free to handle his Cabinet as he wishes. Eisenhower gave his more status as an institution than Kennedy by meeting with it offener. He even took it on television with him to talk to the nation.

Kennedy may meet with his Cabinet members individually. But he puts a great reliance on his White House brain trust. And no one in his Cabinet or brain trust has shared the spotlight with him, or tried to.

Almost from the moment he became Eisenhower's secretary of state in 1953, John Foster Dulles was a great force unto himself without hesitancy in making high policy pronouncements.

Not so with the present secretary, Dean Rusk, a rather self-effacing man who runs his job like an expert technician, leaving the big statements to Kennedy.

Dulles was in continual conflict with his critics. Rusk so far has had practically no critics and his only conflict seems limited to the Russians, and then only in a quietly professional way.

Nobody challenges the competency of Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon. But he has stayed out of the headlines so much most people probably could not say offhand who heads the Treasury Department.

But very early in the Eisenhower administration Secretary of the Treasury George M. Humphrey became a dominant figure with little reluctance in stating policy, a very conservative one, which became the hallmark of Eisenhower's years.

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, the President's brother, may be a symbol of the young-in-heart to many people. But he has operated a lot more quietly than Herbert Brownell, Eisenhower's attorney general.

The times and circumstances, though, were different for Dulles and Brownell. They took over at the peak of the McCarthy era and its hunt for Communists inside and outside government. It was a noisy time.

Still, they overheard some of their problems. Dulles, for example, was so anxious to pacify McCarthyites with State Department purges that he damaged morale there. And Brownell made some harsh attacks, some thought far too harsh, on the previous Truman administration.

The Kennedy men—from the President down—have done extremely little sniping at the Eisenhower administration.

The two presidents each lost one Cabinet member before they had been in office two years: Martin Durkin, Eisenhower's secretary of labor; and Abraham Ribicoff, Kennedy's secretary of health, education and welfare.

There was a big difference in

Dollaway Denies Admission

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—The Dollaway School Board said Wednesday it has refused to reconsider a denial of admission of a 14-year-old Negro girl to predominantly white Dollaway school.

The board turned down the request filed for Sarah Howard by her father, George Howard, a Negro attorney, on grounds that she lives closer to all-Negro Townsend Park school and that board policy does not permit transfers in upper grades, Lee Parham, president, said.

Howard's request was originally denied July 17. He said he was studying the ruling, but would not say whether he would seek further remedy in federal court.

The board has assigned three Negro children to Dollaway school for the fall term. All are to be in primary grades.

their going. Angry Durkin, a former labor leader, accused Eisenhower aides of breaking an agreement to try to soften the Taft-Hartley Act.

Ribicoff, it has been said around Washington, was never close to Kennedy but the two men parted in good spirit because, Ribicoff said, he wanted to run for the Senate from Connecticut.

(While Durkin said little in his nine months with Eisenhower, the present secretary of labor, Arthur J. Goldberg, has also said little except in a factual way but by sheer work is an outstanding Cabinet member.)

Eisenhower and Kennedy each picked an automobile company. Eisenhower—Charles Wilson of General Motors; Kennedy—Robert S. McNamara of Ford Motors.

Any similarity between the two secretaries ends there. Wilson, an extroverted and genial man who sometimes talked too much at the wrong time, bobbed in and out of hot water.

McNamara, the bookish but incisive type, avoids public pronouncements but, by hard work and brains, already is considered one of the best of all secretaries.

As for the other secretaries in both administrations: the Kennedy group has had less to say.

remaining club members, she had fallen into a restless slumber, her friends' faces passing in review, a $20 bill floating beyond the reach of any one of them. "You look tired," said Jim the next morning. "I didn't sleep well," said Margaret. "Dreaming about a missing $20 bill. Who could have taken it?" "Well, it isn't Ann," said Jim. "Remember how she refused to lie about her Johnny's age to get a half-rate train ticket for him? She could have used the money too with all the sickness they had in their family that year." "That leaves only Jane." "Jane doesn't need the money," said Jim. But when Margaret called, Teresa insisted almost tearfully she had searched everywhere—but no $20 bill. "I'm positive it was in my purse when I left it with my coat on your bed," said Teresa miserably. "Do you think this will break up our friendship? For all of us, I mean?" "Unless the thief realizes her mistake and would like to do something about it," said Margaret. "Let's all meet at my house Thursday evening. Each one of us will go alone into the bedroom. Whoever took the money could drop $20 behind my dresser. No one need know her identity." "It's worth trying," said Teresa. There were no preliminaries when they met Thursday evening. One by one they entered the bedroom alone each carrying her purse with her. Margaret was the last. "Now," said Margaret, "Shall we all go into the bedroom together?" Teresa helped Ann remove the heavy mirror resting on the dresser top. Gail, Jane and Margaret moved the dresser. On the floor lay five $20 bills—an unanimous vote to forgive and forget! One bill was returned to Teresa. The remaining $80 were divided equally among the women. They never learned who had taken the bill from Teresa's purse but each member now kept her purse on her lap during the bridge game. All of them, except Jane who continued to leave her purse with her coat in the bedroom.

State College Barn Destroyed
JONESBORO, Ark. (AP)—The Arkansas State College Dairy Barn building, a concrete and wood structure three stories tall, was destroyed by fire today. Damage estimates were not immediately available. Dr. Carl Reng, president of the college, said workmen discovered the fire in the upper parts of the building today. The dairy barn, which has a metal roof, was used largely for storage for hay and other foods for the college's herd. It also housed some classrooms. The building was three blocks off the main college campus. About 20 firemen were trying to keep the fire from spreading to a dairy plant next to the building. The destroyed structure was built in the 1930s by the Public Works Administration.

One of her four friends was a thief.

THIEF AMONG FRIENDS By SYLVIA ZEIGER
Since the Thursday club meeting at Margaret's house when Teresa discovered $20 missing from her purse, Margaret hadn't called her friends. No one had telephoned her. This in itself was disturbing. Seldom a day passed when one of her friends did not telephone one another, if only to plan a shopping tour or discuss menus. They were all trying to recover from the shock of knowing one of them was a thief—the kind who stole from trusting friends. All the members were suspect, thought Margaret, unable to sleep. Who was the guilty one? Was it Gail? The charming young matron, whose passion for beautiful clothes was exceeded only by her love of pendant earrings, conversation pieces every pair. No Twenty dollars for Gail could mean another lovely pair of earrings to delight her, but would she steal $20? When they were all neighbors, living in the same apartment, they borrowed from one another, a cup of sugar, a can of soup, a bar of soap. Gail was the one who always returned what she borrowed. No, Gail wasn't the one. Would Teresa lie about having $20 taken from her purse? Teresa, who never accepted a favor she couldn't return full measure? Teresa could use $20. Her financial struggle to raise four children on Bob's salary was no secret. Yet in the nine years of their friendship, Teresa had always managed, too proud to ask for help. To try to get something for nothing now would be completely out of character for Teresa. Before Margaret could review in her mind the characters of the

Could Be a Sagebrush Ben Casey
By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — James Drury isn't a television star yet and indeed, he may never make it. But in the event NBC's new big economy size Western, "The Virginian," lands on target we have in him a ready made sagebrush Ben Casey. Drury is a comparative unknown with some experience who plunked the season's acting plum, title role in the 90-minute series based on an old Gary Cooper movie. Tall, handsome and 26, the young actor is already showing symptoms of a galloping Vincent Edwards syndrome: self-assurance, a hair-trigger temper and a very prickly disposition. The network has an enormous stake in the success of "The Virginian." It hopes its length, expensive production and exciting performers will keep Wednesday night audiences from traveling with "Wagon Train" to arrival ABC. One of Drury's jobs is to whip up advance interest. And he's perfectly willing—as long as it is on company time—to pose for publicity pictures, sit still and look mildly bored for interviews. But braced with a casual question—where he lives or whether his father is still a New York University professor—Drury turns upon his questioner with angry eyes and a fierce, "I won't answer questions like that. That's personal." "I think the public is entitled to know how I feel about my work, and how I feel about my relations with the rest of the company," he explained heatedly. "But I don't think it is entitled to know anything about my private life."

Dodgers Going Into Key Series With Giants

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Giant killer Tommy Davis will be riding into San Francisco today. And it's gonna take some sharp slingers to handcuff the top gun in the West.

Dennis Bennett, the last left-hander to get the drop on Davis and the Los Angeles Dodgers crew, had the National League leaders blanked on two hits Thursday night until Davis fired a two-run homer that got the front-runners rolling to an 8-3 victory.

Davis, who's belted San Francisco pitching at a .522 clip, warmed up for the important weekend series starting tonight with the second-place Giants by breaking out of a slight slump against the Phillies on a 2-for-3 performance.

The triumph over Philadelphia, in which Lee Walls and Frank Howard contributed key triples left the Dodgers' edge at 5½ games over the Giants. San Francisco took its final target practice against New York, walloping the Mets 7-1 while Jack Sanford won his ninth.

Cincinnati throttled Houston 7-3, although the Colts broke through for their first runs after 38 consecutive scoreless innings, and Milwaukee edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0 on Joe Adcock's homer. St. Louis and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox shut out the Los Angeles Angels 6-0, Minnesota outslugged Kansas City 12-10, Boston blanked Cleveland 4-0 and Detroit defeated Washington 8-5. The Baltimore-New York game was rained out.

Given the impetus by Davis' homer, the Dodgers broke it open with a six-run seventh inning that overcame a 3-2 deficit. The triumph went to reliever Ed Roebuck (4-0).

Sanford (15-6), winning his fifth against the Mets without a loss, was touched for an unearned run in the sixth. The Giants pounded out 13 hits against Bob L. Miller (0-4) and his successors, wrapping it up with a four-run outburst in the bottom of the sixth.

O'Tole (12-12) was touched for the Colts' first runs when catcher Johnny Edwards hit Norm Larker with a throw during a rundown in the fifth inning. Houston finally got an earned run in the ninth on a single by J. C. Harrison and Jim Campbell's two-out double.

Making his first start since July 3, Tony Cloninger (3-2) shut out the Cubs on two hits for seven innings but needed ninth inning relief help from Claude Raymond. Adcock's second inning homer tagged the loss on former Braves' teammate Bob Buhl (8-9).

Finals in Little Loop Baseball

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP)—The finals tonight in the Division 2 Little League baseball tournament will pit a crack team from Gadsden, Ala., against the defending champion, Lake Charles, La.

Both gained the finals through Thursday night victories.

Gadsden, behind the tight pitching of Steve Herring and the batting of centerfielder Jerry Garner, downed Biloxi, Miss., 4-2 in the Thursday night tournament opener.

Lake Charles erupted for five runs in the fifth inning of the nightcap to beat a game Pine Bluff, Ark., squad 5-1.

Pine Bluff was held to one hit. Lake Charles, the heavy favorite to repeat as division champion, entered the scoring column after getting three straight singles and a safe hit. With the bases still loaded, first sacker Wayne Wicks doubled in two more runs and the route began.

Tonight, Pine Bluff and Biloxi meet in the loser's bracket game.

When to Fish or Hunt Solunar Tables

'Joe' Comes Through for Turtle Derby

GOULD, Ark. (AP) — Howard Holthoff's Joe covered 30 feet in a little less than two minutes Thursday to win the 14th annual Turtle Derby at Gould.

Racing on a slow grass track, Joe took about a minute longer than normal to crawl from the center to the ring of a 30-foot circle. On rough ground, it usually takes only about a minute.

It was the first race, for the greenish-brown, 8-inch turtle, and probably his last. After the race he was given to one of the children in the crowd.

So were the 42 others entered in the derby and the six races preceding it. The winner from each race automatically became a derby nominee.

How do you get a turtle to race? You don't. You just turn him loose and hope, according to turtle-racing enthusiasts.

There was a lot of hoping going on at Gould, Joe, for instance, set out at a dead crawl, but stopped halfway to the finish line. He sat there for an agonizing 30 seconds before Holthoff "hoped" him into moving again. Joe pulled another brief sidown strike and then waddled to victory.

Some of his opponents didn't even leave the starting gate. Others maintained a steady pace right up to the line, stopped dead in their tracks and withdrew into their shells in apparent embarrassment.

But turtle racing wasn't all there was for the crowd of 600 that followed each lumbering step attentively. They also were treated to a hillbilly band and a beauty pageant. It was difficult to determine which gave them more solid pleasure—the race, the band or the pageant.

Nancy Carter, 17, of Dumas, won the senior division of the pageant. She now is officially Miss Turtle Derby. Susan Blagg, 15, also of Dumas, won in the junior division.

Holthoff, 44, is a cotton ginner and farmer. He has been racing turtles ever since the Lions Club began sponsoring the derby.

He won't have Joe back next year, but he says he'll get another from the same place he has gotten all the rest — the nearby muddy Arkansas River.

Loan Made to McGehee, Ark.

WASHINGTON (AP) — An interest-free loan of $20,592 to aid McGehee, Ark., in planning a steel and rainage improvement project, estimated to cost $880,400, was announced today by the Community Facilities administration in Washington.

Papete, the only town on the South Sea island of Tahiti, has a population of 18,000.

Rollins, Allen Hottest Combo in American

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Now, let's see. What's the top one-two punch in the American League today? Maris and Mantle? Cash and Colavito? Rollins and Allen?

Rich Rollins and Bernie Allen of the Minnesota Twins don't threaten Norm Cash and Rocky Colavito of the Detroit Tigers or Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris of the New York Yankees in home runs. Not by any means.

But the contributions of Rollins, 24, a third baseman, and Allen, 23, a second baseman, compare favorably with those of the M-M and C-C boys in all other hitting departments, including their combined batting average.

Here is how they stand: Maris-Mantle .271 average, Cash-Colavito .260, and Rollins-Allen .290. Rollins and Allen each drove in four runs as the Twins outlasted Chicago's 12-10 Thursday and regained a share of second place, five games back of New York.

Chicago's Eddie Fisher threw a sparkling three-hitter in a 6-0 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels, Boston and Bill Monbouquette blanked Cleveland 4-0 and Detroit handed Washington its sixth straight loss, 8-5. Baltimore at New York was postponed by rain.

In the National League, first-place Los Angeles Dodgers beat Philadelphia 8-3, second-place San Francisco belted the New York Mets 7-1, Cincinnati defeated Houston 7-3 and Milwaukee shut out Chicago's Cubs 1-0. St. Louis and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

Allen produced three singles and a double and raised his average to a season high of .272 in the Twins' triumph over the A's. Rollins, who is now hitting .305, got maximum mileage out of a couple of singles. His four RBI gave him 79, tied for the No. 2 spot in the league.

Fisher (4-4) struck out only one but didn't walk a man and retired 21 batters in a row over one stretch in pitching the White Sox past the Angels. It was the first shutout of his career for the 26-year-old right-handed knuckleball specialist. A two-run double by Sherm Lollar and Jim Landis' 14th homer were the big White Sox hits.

Boston's Monbouquette (10-11) spaced eight hits and was tough in the clutch in his shutout of Cleveland. Boston got all its runs in the first inning, with Frank Malzone's two-run single the key hit.

Detroit rookie right-hander Howie Koplitz got major support from Billy Bruton in the victory over Washington. Bruton came up with several spectacular catches among his eight putouts in center-field and drove in three runs with a couple of singles.

Palmer's tremendous round dampened the hopes of Jim Ferrer, George Bayer and Mike Souchak, all coming in with 69s. Ferrer had five birdies and four bogeys while Souchak had three bogeys, two birdies and an eagle three on the second hole, which most of the other leaders birdied.

Bayer had the steadiest round, collecting 17 pars and one birdie. Only Jim Ferree matched par in the field of 98, shooting a 36-68-70. Behind Ferree was group of six players with 71s, including PGA champion Gary Player.

Palmer's Hot Putter Leads in American

By JOE MOOSHL
Associated Press Sports Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer has a hot putter, an itching wrist and a chance to break his own all-time money-winning record in the $50,000 American Golf Classic.

The Pennsylvania strongman got off to an excellent start Thursday with a blazing three-under-par 36-31-68-67 over a tough Firestone layout of 7,165 yards for a two-stroke lead in the 72-hole tournament which ends Sunday.

"This is the best putting I've done all year," said Palmer, who was scratching his left wrist after breaking the course record over the back nine with a 31. Palmer one-putted 10 greens and took 27 putts in his entire round. He wasn't hampered a bit by a bee sting on his wrist suffered while playing a practice round Wednesday.

"It itches a little, otherwise it's okay," said Palmer. One would think that the palm on Arnold's hand also was itching. To date he has won $71,198 this year and could surpass in this tournament the PGA record of $75,262 he set in 1960.

By leading the first round, Palmer picked up an extra $1,000 in the tournament which carries a variety of bonuses and a first-place prize of $9,000. Even if Palmer should finish second, the $4,600 would put him past the

King, Others Found Guilty at Albany

By DON MCKEE

ALBANY, Ga. (AP)—Martin Luther King Jr. and three other integration leaders were convicted today of violating city ordinances in a prayer vigil, but they were given suspended sentences in an unprecedented move.

Sentence was imposed by Recorder A.N. Durden Sr. who found King and his associates guilty of disorderly conduct, congregating on the sidewalks and refusing to obey an officer.

But Durden suspended the sentences of $200 fines and 60 days in prison.

"I'm going to let you serve it on probation," Durden said, making the probation conditional upon the defendants not violating valid city ordinances and general good behavior.

The recorder said he did not mean King and the others would have to obey segregation ordinances already ruled unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court.

It wasn't learned immediately whether the scheduled "prayer pilgrimages" would be staged after City Manager Stephen A. Roos denied permission for the protests.

King was arrested July 27 along with nine other Negroes. They lined up on the sidewalk in front of City Hall, intending to hold a 24-hour prayer vigil. They were jailed after refusing to leave.

Tried with King were the Rev. Ralph D. Abernathy, an associate of King; W. G. Anderson, president of the Albany movement; and Slater King, vice president of the organization.

King testified the prayer vigil was a last resort in efforts to gain audience with the City Commission to talk over racial problems. Only a small crowd attended the hearing. Among the spectators were 13 ministers from other states.

The interracial group of clergymen had planned to participate in one of the demonstrations today.
